A simple formula:

\alpha > \beta

One with a few horizontal lines:

\frac{2 \pm \sqrt{7}}{3}

Inline replacements works, too: <-- there should be an alpha + beta

You can use a math role: but it has some problems with spacing and if things are not one-line: .

Don't push it, the directive just works better: